LEGAL REPORT

This Act is designed to modernise the Territory's mutual funds and investment business regimes and introduce appropriate legislative provisions in relation to securities business. This process takes into full account current and emerging international standards of regulation as they relate to the regulation and administration of hedge funds and securities business.

The recent activities in the securities industries worldwide have culminated into calls by the G20, IMF and IOSCO for all regulators to improve their regulatory laws, rules and practices. Among key areas of the securities industry, the hedge fund industry is targeted for change; consequently, the Territory's regime for mutual funds (hedge funds) must also necessarily adapt in order to keep attuned to the established standards of regulation and supervision. This approach is consistent with the Government's policy of strengthening and safeguarding the Territory's financial services sector, while at the same time buttressing its international cooperation regime. Furthermore, as a member of the International Organisation of Securities Commissions (IOSCO), the Territory in effect subscribes to the international standards established for the regulation of securities, including the need to adopt appropriate measures to guard against market abuse and insider trading.

One of the fundamental policy issues in relation to the Act is the provision of an appropriate legal framework under which securities and investment business ventures will be regulated and administered in or from within the Territory, with the details thereof being embodied in relevant subsidiary legislation.

This approach has been adopted in order to provide sufficient flexibility for the regulatory framework to be adapted as the market in the Territory develops and as international standards change. When fully in place, the Act and its relevant subsidiary legislation are intended to ensure that the Territory is compliant with the Objectives and Principles of Securities Regulation issued by IOSCO (as relevant and appropriate to the BVI); as well as other internationally accepted standards and best practices. Moreover, the framework is intended to ensure that the regulatory regime for securities and investment business is comprehensive, and at the same time appropriate for the existing business environment in the Territory.

The Act is divided into six Parts, each of which addresses a specific aspect of securities and/or investment business.

Part I deals with investment business and details the categories of licenses and the requirements for being granted a licence by the Commission. Financial resource requirements, including the maintenance of capital resources, are also outlined. Obligations of, and restrictions on, licensees including the appointment and termination of directors and senior officers, the need to maintain professional indemnity and other insurance, and the disposing or acquiring of significant interest in a licensee are also explained. Other areas covered within this Part include corporate governance requirements, such as the obligation of the licensee to maintain records explaining its transactions and allowing for the determination of its financial position; identification, protection and proper segregation of client assets; and the control of advertisements and conduct of business as may be provided for in the Regulatory Code or Public Funds Code.

Part II addresses the public issuance of securities. It outlines the requirements for the registration, issuance and distribution of a prospectus; circumstances under which a court may issue compensation order based on false or misleading advertisement of a prospectus, as well as those circumstances in which no compensation may be awarded. Clauses 34 and 35, in particular, address enforcement matters surrounding the cancellation or suspension of the registration or prohibition of a public offer. This Part further addresses the offer for securities issued by a BVI company outside of the Virgin Islands and gives the Commission the authority to issue a Public Issuers Code providing for the duties and obligations of public issuers, and the preparation of financial statements as well as the powers and duties of auditors of public issuers. It also allows for the making of Investment Business Regulations which may provide for offenses and penalties for any contravention of, or failure to comply with, specified requirements of those Regulations.

Part III covers Mutual Funds and will replace the existing mutual fund provisions in the Mutual Funds Act of 1996 (which is being repealed) and related subsidiary legislation, and addresses various prohibitions with respect to unregistered or unrecognised funds and the promotion of mutual funds. The Part speaks to the registration of public funds and the recognition of private, professional and foreign funds, investors' rights, the appointment and termination of directors, functionaries and others, and maintenance of financial records and the making of the Mutual Funds Regulations. In developing the framework as it relates to mutual funds, care has been taken not to materially change the existing well functioning and established industry and product. Therefore, as far as possible, the status quo has been maintained but transformed, enhanced and modernised through the appropriate medium of issuing Regulations.

Part IV outlines the provisions of general application including the requirement of licensees and funds to have an authorised representative and the process of applying for certification as an authorized representative. The requirements for preparation and submission of financial statements to the Commission, appointment of auditors and their obligations, as well as the powers of the Commission to revoke the appointment of auditors who have failed to fulfill their obligations under the Act are also outlined.

Part V addresses market abuse and defines certain key terms used in the section. The Part outlines the offences related to insider dealing, the making of misleading statements and the act of market manipulation and possible defences for such actions, and provides for the creation of Market Abuse Regulations. This addresses several of the FATF Recommendations which call for the criminalisation of market manipulation and insider trading.

Miscellaneous provisions are addressed in Part VI which essentially includes the maintenance of registers by the Commission and inspection of such registers, the fees, penalties and charges payable to the Commission, the application of the Regulatory Code in respect of the Act and the establishment of a Securities and Investment Business Advisory Committee. This Part also outlines the various offence provisions of the Act.

The Act provides eight Schedules, with Schedule 1 dealing with definitions for the various investment vehicles, while Schedule 2 details the types of investment activities persons are permitted to engage in as well as those activities which are deemed not to constitute dealing in investments. Schedule 2 also outlines the categories of excluded persons who are not recognised as carrying on investment business. Schedule 3 defines the categories and sub-categories of investment business licences, while Schedule 4 provides a list of qualified investors. Schedule 5 defines the various types of securities for the purposes of Part V of the Act. Schedule 6 deals with the modification of the various sections of the BVI Business Companies Act, 2004 with respect to public issuers that are BVI business companies. Schedule 7 provides a detailed list of offences found under the Act, while Schedule 8 addresses the transitional provisions of the Act.

The enactment of the Act will demonstrate the Territory's ongoing commitment to continually reviewing and reforming its financial services legislation and to strengthening its current regimes to facilitate the conduct of business and make the Territory more competitive. It will also demonstrate the Territory's continued commitment to comply with established and emerging international standards of regulation and supervision thus helping to maintain the Territory's reputation. The Act is accordingly commended to the House of Assembly for consideration and enactment.

The Act was introduced in the House of Assembly on the 18th of March, 2010, taken through the remaining stages and passed on the 12th of April, 2010.

In my opinion, His Excellency the Governor may properly assent to this Act in the name and on behalf of Her Majesty.
